Offspring of Cornet Obolensky triumphant

Top result at Westphalia's online auction for jumping hopes

Münster: The international customers were very interested in the Westphalian foals with a pedigree predispositioned for jumping. The Cornet Obolensky blood was especially sought after. Customers paid 53,000 Euros for a son of the grey stallion. A total of 29 foals changed owners at an average price of 10,974 Euros.

Once again, the great popularity of the star sire Cornet Obolensky among the customers of the Westphalian Stud Book was demonstrated. Of the 33 foals predispositioned for jumping, on offer, many carried the blood of the stamp stallion in the first generations. The most popular colt this evening was a direct son of the grey. With the head number 1 and the name Cornet's Creation, a stallion prospect with a promising future presented himself. Dam, St.Pr.St. Deja-vu by Diarado, already produced top auction foals and the internationally successful Kannan-daughter Kir Royal. Born on the Sudheimer Hof, this brown stallion is in no way inferior to his siblings. Equipped with modern type and enormous nice movements, he aroused the interest of the customers. Twelve parties fought for the winning bid in a BidUp that lasted more than 30 minutes. In the end, the virtual hammer fell for 53,000 euros in favour of regular customers from Hamburg. The Origi D'O son Obolensky was also worth 28,000 Euros to the same customers. This stallion prospect also comes from the Sudheimer Hof and was bred out of the internationally successful performance mare Cornelly by Cornet Obolensky. The brown not only inspires with his striking, sporty appearance, but also with his strong movement mechanics. The dam Cornelly celebrated international success under the saddle of Marco Kutscher/GER and Christopher Kläsener/GER.

Customers from Hungary and Great Britain fought a long bidding duel for the most popular filly of this collection. In the end, the customers from Hungary had the most staying power. Claire S by Conthargos (breeder: Christin Stoll, Büren) changed hands for 15,500 Euros. Her dam is the Contendro-daughter Caprice, who was successful in show jumping classes up to 1.40 metres. Celiné is travelling to far away Japan. The filly was worth 14,500 Euros to customers from East Asia. The bay filly (breeder: Bernd Kröger, Dinklage) is a daughter of the Verb.Pr.St. California by Casall, who was already the dam of top auction horse at the previous show auctions at the Turnier der Sieger 2019 and the Chiemsee Pferdefestival 2018. The filly's sire is none other than the Cornet Obolensky son Comme il faut NRW, who also made himself a name in sport and breeding.

Of the 33 foals offered for auction, 29 changed hands this evening. With an average price of 10,974 Euros, they achieved a turnover of 318,250 Euros. One third of the foals sold broke the 10,000 Euro mark. 14 of the sold hopefuls for the show jumping ring will represent Westphalia abroad in the future. Four of the foals were sold to customers from Hungary and four to customers from the Netherlands.
